OHIO LEGION PLANS POLL

Effort to Obtain Payment of Remaining 50 Per Cent of Bonus Continued.

COLUMBUS, O., March 18.—A vote by the American Legion of Ohio on whether the remaining 50 per cent of the bonus should be immediately paid was planned today.

Due to "the stress of economic conditions," the state organization will conduct a poll on the question although the Detroit convention of the national organization, in deference to the wishes of President Hoover, tabled resolutions calling for immediate payment, it was announced by State Commander Paul M. Herbert.

ISSUE IS FORCED

The ninth district of the legion, comprising Summit, Cuyahoga, Mahoning, Trumbull, Lake, Geauga, Ashtabula and Portage counties, forced the issue with a resolution demanding such action, Herbert indicated.

Since the Detroit convention, "there has been a growing sentiment over the state due again to the stress of economic conditions, or an expression of sentiment on the part of individual members," Herbert said.

The Legion was glad to heed the word of our president at the time of the national convention, he stated.

"Some have since raised a cry that sounded loud enough to be the voice of the entire Legion of Ohio, but this vote ought to reveal to us exactly whether a majority wants immediate cash payment," he added.

Harry Powers, in Interview Today, Says His Conscience is Clear

REHEARSAL IS HELD

Condemned Man Still Hopes for Respite

By LEO V. DOLAN

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., March 18.—With the last hope swept away through the refusal of Governor W. G. Conley to grant clemency, Harry F. Powers, "Quiet Dell bluebeard," today faced death on the gallows buoyed up by "a clear conscience and the abiding knowledge that I am innocent."

Powers was interviewed in his death cell here by International News Service.

ANSWERS QUESTIONS

In a few short hours he was to be led to the gallows. He exhibited a remarkable, almost contemptuous, composure as he fired back answer for question. Only the involuntary blinking of his pale blue eyes evidenced the inward stress under which he labored.

"As long as there is life, there's hope," he said. "I still trust that the courts will not finally deny me justice and that the American spirit of fair play will prevail."

"Did you know that Dr. W. D. McCung, psychiatrist, had declared you legally sane and amenable to the law?" Powers was asked.

He shrugged his shoulders, encased in a rough green sweater.

"I told that doctor myself I was sane," he said. "I said to him 'do I look like an insane man' and he said 'no.'"

The questioning reverted to Quiet Dell where the bodies of Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, Mrs. Asta Eicher and the latter's children were found in a shallow trench.

DENIES GUILT

"Are you guilty of any complicity in the deaths of these people?"

"No," tersely.

"That is the reason I can face death calmly. No one wishes to die. To meet death knowing that justice has been denied me is a horrible thought. But I have a clear conscience. I am innocent."

The interviewer indicated the whitewashed walls of the cell he entered. Harry is confined, the drab yellow bars of his cell, the small cot where he sleeps—"peacefully," he says—the little table where Harry's Bible, his dictionary and his box of dominoes reposed.

"Are you comfortable here, Harry?"

"Perfectly," he answered.

"There's nothing I want or need." "Do you think capital punishment a deterrent to murder?"

"I do not," emphatically. "God Almighty alone has the right to take a human life."

"Have you any message you would like to send to the public concerning 'lonesome' clubs or 'matrimonial knubs'?"

"I hardly know what to say," he pondered the question. "After all it is the duty of parents to guide and to advise their children—and when those children reach their majority they should have intelligence enough to decide their own courses."

DENIES ESTRANGEMENT

Powers volunteered the information that far from being estranged from his wife, as had been widely reported, she has written him a letter every week since he was placed in the death cell.

"Each letter brought words of cheer and hope," he added. "I write in return each week."

"Every passage in the Bible brings me a consolation. I have read it through five times."

He declined a cigarette, saying: "Don't use 'em. Do you know (Continued on Page Six)."

CLEVELAND, March 18.—Prohibition today was certain to be injected as a platform issue into the Republican National convention.

Defying administration forces to straddle the question State Senator Joseph N. Ackerman promised that if the issue is sidetracked in the resolutions committee he will introduce a modification resolution from the convention floor.

The announcement followed in the wake of the "discovery" that a substantial majority of the delegates from Ohio, cradle of the Anti-Saloon league, will be sympathetic to the wet cause.

OHIO LEGION PLANS POLL

Effort to Obtain Payment of Remaining 50 Per Cent of Bonus Continues.

COLUMBUS, O., March 18.—A vote by the American Legion of Ohio on whether the remaining 50 per cent of the bonus should be immediately paid was planned today.

Due to "the stress of economic conditions," the state organization will conduct a poll on the question although the Detroit convention of the national organization, in deference to the wishes of President Hoover, tabled resolutions calling for immediate payment, it was announced by State Commander Paul M. Herbert.

ISSUE IS FORCED
The ninth district of the legion, comprising Summit, Cuyahoga, Mahoning, Trumbull, Lake, Geauga, Ashtabula and Portage counties, forced the issue with a resolution demanding such action, Herbert indicated.

Since the Detroit convention, "there has been a growing sentiment over the state, due again to the stress of economic conditions, or an expression of sentiment on the part of individual members," Herbert said.

STORM HINDERS RESCUE CUTTER

NORFOLK, Va., March 18.—A 70-mile an hour gale today slowed the progress of the United States coast guard cutter Carrabasset from racing to the assistance of the distressed tanker Ralla 300 miles off Cape Henry.

An SOS received from the S. S. Duchess of Bedford told of the tanker's need of aid. The Ralla apparently lost a rudder in the storm.

The tanker was on the way from Rumania to Baltimore. The coast guard cutter Champlain, out of New York, was understood also to be hastening to the stricken vessel's aid.

Harry Powers, in Interview Today, Says His Conscience is Clear

REHEARSAL IS HELD

Condemned Man Still Hopes for Respite

By LEO V. DOLAN

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., March 18.—With the last hope swept away through the refusal of Governor W. G. Conley to grant clemency, Harry F. Powers, "Quiet Dell bluebeard," today faced death on the gibbet buoyed up by "a clear conscience and the abiding knowledge that I am innocent."

Powers was interviewed in his death cell here by International News Service.

ANSWERS QUESTIONS

In a few short hours he was to be led to the gallows. He exhibited a remarkable, almost contemptuous, composure as he fired back answer for question. Only the involuntary blinking of his pale blue eyes evidenced the inward stress under which he labored.

"As long as there is life, there's hope," he said. "I still trust that the courts will not finally deny me justice and that the American spirit of fair play will prevail."

"Did you know that Dr. W. D. McCung, psychiatrist, had declared you legally sane and amenable to the law?" Powers was asked.

He shrugged his shoulders, encased in a rough green sweater. "I told that doctor myself I was sane," he said. "I said to him 'do I look like an insane man' and he said 'no.'"

The questioning reverted to Quiet Dell where the bodies of Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, Mrs. Asta Eicher and the latter's children were found in a shallow trench.

DENIES GUILT

"Are you guilty of any complicity in the deaths of these people?"

"No," tersely.

"That is the reason I can face death calmly. No one wishes to die. To meet death knowing that justice has been denied me is a horrible thought. But I have a clear conscience. I am innocent."

The interviewer indicated the whitewashed walls of the cell block where Harry is confined, the drab yellow bars of his cell, the small cot where he sleeps—"peacefully," he says—the little table where Harry's Bible, his dictionary and his box of dominoes reposed.

"Are you comfortable here, Harry?"

"Perfectly," he answered. "There's nothing I want or need."

"Do you think capital punishment a deterrent to murder?"

"I do not," emphatically. "God Almighty alone has the right to take a human life."

"Have you any message you would like to send to the public concerning 'lonely' clubs or 'matrimonial clubs'?"

"I hardly know what to say," he pondered the question. "After all it is the duty of parents to warn, to guide and to advise their children—and when those children reach their maturity they should have intelligence enough to decide their own courses."

DENIES ESTRANGEMENT
Powers volunteered the information that far from being estranged from his wife, as had been widely reported, she has written him a letter every week since he was placed in the death cell.

"Each letter brought words of cheer and hope," he added. "I write in return each week."

He declined a cigarette, saying: "Don't use 'em. Do you know (Continued on Page Six)."

ROOSEVELT'S POWER ELATES FOLLOWERS

BY GEORGE HOLMES.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—The Roosevelt victory in the North Dakota primary, coming on top an earlier victory in New Hampshire last week, has elated his followers in Congress. But among the anti-Roosevelt Democrats there was a disposition to minimize the effect of winning these small states, and to wait for the more important tests that are coming in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

In North Dakota as in New Hampshire the state Democratic organization was solidly behind Roosevelt. The for-and-against leaders in these states embarked aboard the Roosevelt and wagon weeks ago when it appeared the only one in sight. Having got aboard they found it expedient to get off.

ELIMINATE MURRAY

The most important result of the North Dakota primary, as viewed by most Democrats here, is the elimination of Gov. William ("Alfalfa") Murray of Oklahoma, as a serious contender for the Democratic presidential nomination. Murray made his bid for support outside his home state by stumping North Dakota. He was defeated by a 6-1 margin. This is almost exactly the reverse of what Gov. Murray himself predicted would be the outcome in North Dakota after he had toured the state. He would carry it by 2-1.

CHILDREN CRY FOR IT

It is not considered likely here that Gov. Murray can "go anywhere" now. He has his own delegation of 22 from Oklahoma, and he is entered in a number of other western primaries, but it is felt here that he cannot carry any of the other western states where a general discontent is widespread. Murray's personality and policies were peculiarly appealing to the discontented farmers of the Northwest, but apparently not sufficiently for them to vote for him.

VOTE SURPRISES

The size of the Democratic vote in North Dakota both surprised and pleased Democratic leaders. Ordinarily, only a handful of Democrats turn out in a Democratic primary in the state. Yet returns thus far incomplete show upwards of 60,000 votes in the Roosevelt-Murray contest of Tuesday. The greatest Democratic vote in North Dakota's history turned out in 1928 when Al Smith polled 106,000 to lose the state by 25,000 to Herbert Hoover.

Various interpretations were placed on the size of the Democratic vote.

To Senator Nye, a Republican, the Democratic showing spelled "a rebuke to President Hoover." He declared the vote on Tuesday constituted notice to the administration that it should cease running relief to the "international bankers" and turn its attention to the distress in the agricultural regions.

Senator Dill (D) of Washington, one of the most fervent Roosevelt adherents in the Senate, declared the North Dakota result "has stopped the 'Stop Roosevelt' movement."

Lutheran Brotherhood Enjoys Spring Meeting In Contest of the Seasons

Spring is here! At least it was at the Lutheran Brotherhood Thursday evening. The spring group in the "Contest of the Seasons" put on their show under the direction of Dr. G. J. Troutman, Charles Walters and George Himrod.

Although there were a few skeptical ones in the audience, especially in the summer group, who went so far as to give the judges a box of pins with which to amuse themselves in case the program was dull their fears were quickly relieved and the pins were soon discarded.

The "set-up" was rather patriotic, representing the old camp ground. A campfire and tent in a nice grassy spot was very pleasing.

The program opened with the boys laying around the fire in the evening all in shirt sleeves enjoying the beautiful spring, as they sang "Ho Hum."

A pair of lovers came strolling down the path. This was followed by the appearance of Mary's little lamb, Leroy May being Mary. In quick succession all the spring sports were introduced, roller skating, bicycle riding, golfing, baseball, fishing, and a couple anxious lads even went swimming. The feature of this part of the program was the marble game, by Frank Palm and D. E. Mason.

Dr. Troutman gave a brief outline of the program and gave a short inspiring talk on spring. With Charles Walters as director and the entire group as chorus, they simply gave the audience "April Fool."

William Koch followed with a funny talk on gardening. George Himrod sang a solo, "Mother." Next a graduation class. Harry Groce as professor, Theodore Koch as Valedictorian and Harry Kerns as class speaker.

Decorations Day brought the group around the camp fire, with two soldiers on duty, a song by D. E. Mason, "Tenting Tonight," a poem by Gladden Troutman, "On Flanders Field" and "Columbia" by the chorus was very good.

A wedding with Frank Palm as minister, George Himrod as bride, Clarence Wolf as groom, Harry Kerns as flower girl, Charles Walters as bridesmaid, Adara Kuntz as father and Harry Groce as mother was an amusing farce that was climaxed when the bride and groom went to get their ticket for their honeymoon and Gladden Troutman as ticket agent explained that the upper was lower.

Dr. Troutman's impersonation of "Getting a Divorce from Betty" was the star performance of the evening. A good "right song" closed this fine program.

All the judges were present. The next meeting will be April 7, when the summer group will have their program with J. R. Noecker, E. E. Wolf and G. L. Lampel as directors.

Daughter-in-Law Seeks Guns of Jesse James

Excelsior Springs, Mo.—Guns used by Jesse James, which have caused dissension ever since the outlaw's death, are creating trouble again. This time the police have been asked to take a hand in the argument over ownership.

Dr. Ernest Lowrey, Excelsior Springs physician, now has the guns. He got them while he was attending Jesse E. James, the notorious bandit's son, several years ago. Doctor Lowrey says he was given the guns, weapons of the long barreled, cap and ball type, as part payment on a bill for his professional services. He keeps them locked in a safe.

Mrs. Jesse E. James has asked police to see what they can do to return the guns to her. She now lives in Los Angeles.

Bumper Bachelor Crop in Hollywood

Film Capital Ideal Hunting Ground for Girls Who Feel Urge to Exercise Leap Year Privileges. Longest List of Eligibles in History.

For the girl who desires to exercise the traditional right of selecting her husband, before this leap year runs out there is no more promising hunting ground in the world than Hollywood. Never has there been such a bumper crop of eligible bachelors as the present aggregation of young movie stars. There is Joel McCrea, whose good looks and film popularity would make him a welcome son-in-law to any mama in the country. That Joel is not immune to the barbs of Cupid is evident by the pitter-patter into which his heart was thrown by the beauty of Constance Bennett before she married the Marquis de la Fala. Then there is James Dunn, who, though a newcomer to the screen, made a rapid climb to stardom after his initial success in "Bad Girl." Jimmie is at that impressionable age when a smart girl might succeed in roping him, although he is more concerned with his career than with women, so far. For the girl who likes the big outdoorsy man, Gary Cooper is waiting to be picked off the bachelor bandwagon. Gary had a bit of heart trouble over Lupe Velez, according to rumor, but that's just a memory. For the girl inclined towards music there is Ramon Navarro, who sings like an opera star and is as handsome as a Greek God. Though Buddy Rogers has temporarily deserted Hollywood for the stage, he's still on the eligible list. Buddy likes his girls old-fashioned—no flask-toters need apply. William Haines is still another ornament on the bachelor Christmas tree. Bill is not as wild in real life as he is in real life. He prefers the friendship of older women, but that doesn't mean that he would not rather have the love of a younger one. So go right ahead, girls, bait your hooks.

DARBY SCHOOL

Do not forget the P. T. A. meeting this Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock. A good program has been prepared by the committee for the occasion. John W. Bricker has been procured to give the address. All are invited.

A group of Capital University students presented a program of pictures and music at our last chapel period last Friday. The pictures were taken at the University, but they were designed to show the high school students what conditions they must face when they go to the average small college in Ohio. A mixed quartet sang several songs for the entertainment part of the program.

The seniors are working on their play, "Lost—a Chapter," which will be given some time in April, probably the 22nd.

Ernest Blessing, the member of the senior class who was taken to White Cross Hospital, is reported much better.

The annual County Field Meet and Oratorical Contest was cancelled for this year by an action taken by the superintendents of the county at their regular meeting last Saturday because of economic conditions.

The annual athletic banquet was held in the school dining room last Friday night. The players, their parents, faculty, and the Board of Education were present. Rev. V. D. Ridenour of Canal Winchester was the speaker for the occasion.

The following pupils were awarded letters: Helen Gulick, Freda Martine, Sara Jane Neff, Betty Neace, Marjorie Shuman, Helen Hill, William Leach, Ward Dailey, William Eddings, Gene Winifough, Raymond Dantz, Edward Hicks, Lawrence Sollars, Glendon Hatfield, Roy Near, and Ernest Blessing.

Bumper Bachelor Crop in Hollywood

Film Capital Ideal Hunting Ground for Girls Who Feel Urge to Exercise Leap Year Privileges. Longest List of Eligibles in History.

For the girl who desires to exercise the traditional right of selecting her husband before this leap year runs out, there is no more promising hunting ground in the world than Hollywood. Never has there been such a bumper crop of eligible bachelors as the present aggregation of young movie stars. There is Joel McCrea, whose good looks and film popularity would make him a welcome son-in-law to any mama in the country. That Joel is not immune to the barbs of Cupid is evident by the pitter-patter into which his heart was thrown by the beauty of Constance Bennett before she married the Marquis de la Falaie. Then there is James Dunn, who, though a newcomer to the screen, made a rapid climb to stardom after his initial success in "Bad Girl." Jimmie is at that impressionable age when a smart girl might succeed in roping him, although he is more concerned with his career than with women, so far. For the girl who likes the big outdoors man, Gary Cooper is waiting to be picked off the bachelor bandwagon. Gary had a bit of heart trouble over Lupe Velez, according to rumor, but that's just a memory. For the girl inclined towards music there is Ramon Navarro, who sings like an opera star and is as handsome as a Greek God. Though Buddy Rogers has temporarily deserted Hollywood for the stage, he's still on the eligible list. Buddy likes his girls old-fashioned—no flash-toters need apply. William Haines is still another ornament on the bachelor Christmas tree. Bill is not as wild in real life as he is in real life. He prefers the friendship of older women, but that doesn't mean that he would not rather have the love of a younger one. So go right ahead, girls, bait your hooks.

DARBY SCHOOL

Do not forget the P. T. A. meeting this Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock. A good program has been prepared by the committee for the occasion. John W. Bricker has been procured to give the address. All are invited.

A group of Capital University students presented a program of pictures and music at our last chapel period last Friday. The pictures were taken at the University, but they were designed to show the high school students what conditions they must face when they go to the average small college in Ohio. A mixed quartet sang several songs for the entertainment part of the program.

The seniors are working on their play, "Lost—A Chaperon," which will be given some time in April, probably the 22nd.

Ernest Blessing, the member of the senior class who was taken to White Cross Hospital, is reported much better.

The annual County Field Meet and Oratorical Contest was cancelled for this year by an action taken by the superintendents of the county at their regular meeting last Saturday because of economic conditions.

The annual athletic banquet was held in the school dining room last Friday night. The players, their parents, faculty, and the Board of Education were present. Rev. V. D. Ridenour of Canal Winchester was the speaker for the occasion. The following pupils were awarded letters: Helen Gulick, Freda Matthaes, Sara Jane Neff, Betty Near, Marjorie Skinner, Helen Hill, William Leach, Ward Dailey, William Ergine, Gene Winfough, Raymond Dornitz, Edward Hicks, Lawrence Sollars, Glendon Hatfield, Roy Near, and Ernest Blessing.

The Only Difference

There is this difference between great leaders and the average citizen: The average citizen doesn't know how to save the country, either, but he doesn't know it.—Los Angeles Times.

3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons melted butter or other
fat.

1 onion, sliced
2 cups tomatoes, canned or fresh.
2 cups corn
2 teaspoon salt.

1-4 pound sharp cheese, shaved
thin.
Brown the flour in a heavy skillet, remove the flour from the skillet, and blend with 2 tablespoons of fat. Brown the onion in the remaining fat, add the other ingredients except the cheese, and cook for about 10 minutes. Stir in the cheese and when melted serve on thin crisp toast.

TOMATO JELLY SALAD
3 tablespoons gelatin
1-2 cup cold water.
1 quart tomatoes, canned or fresh.

2 or 3 slices onion.
1-2 teaspoons salt.
1 teaspoon sugar.
1 tablespoon green pepper, chopped.

2 tablespoons celery, chopped.
1 tablespoon parsley, chopped.
1 cup cabbage, shredded.
Soak the gelatin in the cold water for 5 minutes. Boil the tomatoes and onion for 5 minutes.
Strain through a fine sieve, pour
the hot tomato juice over the softened gelatin, and stir until it is dissolved. Add the salt and sugar, and chill. When the gelatin mixture is partly set, add the finely
chopped vegetables and mix well.
Add more salt if needed. If the mixture is not tart enough, add a little lemon juice or vinegar. Pour into wet custard cups and place
in a cold place until set, turn out
on lettuce leaves, and serve with salad dressing.

2 tablespoons tomato catsup.
1 teaspoon onion pulp.
1 teaspoon horseradish.

Boil the tomatoes, celery, pepper, and salt for about 5 minutes,
and rub through a sieve that is
fine enough to keep back the seeds.
To the tomato juice and pulp, add
the catsup, onion, and horseradish.
(A little lemon juice is a good addition if the tomatoes are not very acid.) Stir the mixture well,
and put in a cold place to chill.
Beat before serving and pour into small glasses. Finely chopped parsley sprinkled on top adds attractiveness. Thinly sliced cucumber
may be used in place of the par-

RECEIPTS

Tomatoes, Corn, and Cheese on Toast
3 tablespoons flour
fat

1 onion, sliced
2 cups tomatoes, canned or fresh
2 cups canned corn
2 teaspoons salt.
1-4 pound sharp cheese, shaved
thin.

Brown the flour in a heavy skil-
let, remove the flour from the skillet, and blend with 2 tablespoons
of fat. Brown the onion in the remaining fat, add the other ingredients except the cheese, and cook
for about 10 minutes. Stir in the cheese and when melted serve on
thin crisp toast.

3 tablespoons gelatin.
1-2 cup cold water.
1 quart tomatoes, canned or
fresh.

2 or 3 slices onion.
1 1-2 teaspoons salt.
1 teaspoon sugar.
1 tablespoon green pepper, chopped.

2 tablespoons celery, chopped.
1 tablespoon parsley, chopped.
1 cup cabbage, shredded.

Soak the gelatin in the cold
water for 5 minutes. Boil the tomatoes and onion for 5 minutes,
strain through a fine sieve, pour
the hot tomato juice over the softened gelatin, and stir until it is dissolved. Add the salt and sugar,
and chill. When the gelatin mixture is partly set, add the finely
chopped vegetables and mix well.
Add more salt if needed. If the
mixture is not tart enough, add a little lemon juice or vinegar. Pour
into wet custard cups and place
in a cold place until set, turn out
on lettuce leaves, and serve with salad dressing.

TOMATO COCKTAIL

1 quart tomatoes, canned or
fresh.
2 stalks celery, chopped.
1-2 green pepper, chopped.
1 teaspoon salt.
2 tablespoons tomato catsup.
1 teaspoon onion pulp.
1 teaspoon horseradish.

Boil the tomatoes, celery, pepper, and salt for about 5 minutes,
and rub through a sieve that is
fine enough to keep back the seeds.
To the tomato juice and pulp, add
the catsup, onion, and horseradish.
(A little lemon juice is a good addition if the tomatoes are not very acid.) Stir the mixture well,
and put in a cold place to chill.
Beat before serving and pour into small glasses. Finely chopped parsley sprinkled on top adds attractiveness. Thinly sliced cucumber may be used in place of the parsley.

TOMATOES, TOMATO JUICE — AND WHY

The tomato is a peculiarly important food, says the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. No other, vegetable gives quite so many kinds of value for the money, and no other is more readily available, in one form or another, in all parts of the country at all times of the year. We have nothing to match the tomato in flavor, in color, or in variety of possibilities for the table.

If you doubt this, try to imagine what your meals would be like without the "love apple," as it used to be called. No broiled or fried tomatoes. No tomato juice for cocktail. No tomato soup and no tomato flavor in vegetable or chicken creole soup. No catsup or chili sauce. No scalloped or stuffed tomatoes, no macaroni with tomatoes, no tomato omelet. No tomatoes for Swiss steak and meat loaf. No diced tomato or jelly tomato salad. No tomato preserves.
Certainly no other one article of food is utilized in quite so many ways, or would be missed more by most people.

Quite as important, however, as its flavor, color and general attractiveness, are the food values of the tomato. Moreover, it is easy to can tomatoes and they are available all year at reasonable cost.
The tomato is used as a vegetable,
but it is really a fruit, and it serves the same purpose in the balanced diet as the citrus fruits. Oranges and grapefruit are highly recommended by nutritionists for their vitamin content. Tomatoes contain the same vitamins, and nowadays tomato juice is almost interchangeable with orange juice in the menu. Each is also a good source of several minerals.

Tomato juice is fed to little babies, to make sure they will get enough vitamins, especially vitamin C. This vitamin is easily destroyed in cooking, but the tomato, unlike the non-acid vegetables, retains a goodly portion of its vitamin C even when cooked or canned. It furnishes also some vitamin A, which is not easy to provide in sufficient quantity in a low cost diet, either for children or adults. A variety of foods contain vitamin A—liver, butter, carrots, cream cheese, greens of any kinds, as well as tomatoes—but it takes much more than a daily serving of any one of these foods, the scientists say, to provide all the vitamin A one person should have.

The tomato also contains vitamin
B, which is necessary for grown and appetite.

One excellent way to vary the use of tomatoes is the tomato juice
"cock tail" which is now so popular. The juice may be served alone or it may be flared in various ways according to taste. The "cocktail" is easy to make, either by adding the seasoning to the canned juice, or cooking the fresh or canned tomatoes for a seasoning to the canned juice, or by cooking the fresh or canned tomatoes for a few minutes, with the seasonings, and then rubbing through a sieve to take out the seeds. This flavored juice, which is the "cocktail" may be kept in quantity in a refrigerator and used from day to day as desired.

To make tomato jelly, for salad,
add gelatin, pour into wet custard cups and put in a cold place until set.

tion.

How many people in school or out of school work are up to the full value of their ability. One hundred per cent efficiency is impossible 90 per cent is extremely rare most of us are working nearer 80 per cent to 50 per cent of our efficiency than above that figure. Some pupils can work at 1-2 their efficiency and still keep up.

But are they just to themselves if they only do that. This plan of work will create idle habits which will interfere with success in past school life.

Unemployment Money

MUCH is being heard nowadays dollars at work. What does it mean?

A dollar in a savings fund is the most simple form of investment and is a typical dollar work. Any dollar that earns something for its owner is a working dollar. And every dollar that earns for its owner is creating capital, credit, business or employment for others. Money in the bank earns interest; in securities, dividends; in business, profits; in industry, profits and wages; in life insurance, capital, dividends and protection. In each instance it is money at work. Dollars at work dig mines, turn mill wheels, till the soil, provide employment and create profits and credit. But what does the idle dollar do? It tells not, neither does it spin. It has a home only, and its home may be an old sock or a straw mattress. Nor can it claim greater security than the working dollar.

The idle dollar is out of a job, does not work, cannot earn. In a year's time, in 20 years, as long as it is kept in idleness, it will be the same old dollar; it not have increased a penny's worth. Thrift and caution do not require that money be hoarded. Billions of dollars invested during the period of inflation are worth a hundred cents on the dollar today and are still working and earning. And many dollars hoarded during a period of deflation will be lost to the hoarders forever through fire and theft.

Mechanized Speech

FREEDOM of speech is guaranteed by the constitution yet it is denied to the movies and radio; denied not by law but by the reproduction of the human voice. There is a vocabulary censorship for both the talkies and the microphone. The microphone has definite limits, which are even more closely drawn by the films and their technique. Long words, and practically all words, are left out. Words with nasals of inflection blacklisted a long list of words. The list is further augmented by the peculiarities of pronunciation of individual actors and announcers.

Roughly speaking, Anglo-Saxon words and words used in everyday conversation have been retained while words of Latin origin have been banished. It is apparent to all that this censorship will exert a powerful influence upon the language and vocabulary of the nation. Its effect will be one of schooling the public in the use of staccato sentences of monosyllabic words. This is in harmony with the spirit of our time, which calls for quick thinking, brevity of speech and direct action.

An Unique Art

VERY few people are aware of the fact that the type they read in their newspapers, magazines, books and advertising has been designed by someone; that there is an art which has to do solely with the designing of new type faces. Reading has become so commonplace that most adult readers have forgotten that there are letters of the alphabet. So long as they do not intrude themselves due to some peculiarity of letters do not impress the reader's consciousness. The art of the type designer paradoxically aims at impressing the reader by being inconspicuous. He is constantly striving to create letters that are more legible and which make the printed page more beautiful.

One of the world's foremost members of this craft, Frederick W. Goudy, has spent 34 years designing 73 type faces. Although few recognize his name all who read see specimens of his handiwork daily. His art means this to him: "The main purpose of making letters is the practical one of making thoughts visible. However, they have as well a decided decorative quality, quite apart from any ornamental treatment of the separate characters. Letters need only to be simple, well shaped and well proportioned. Beauty is not to be sought at the expense of practicality."

How different from most of the other arts is the art of type design. Taking Advantage of Opportunity John D. Rockefeller saw his opportunity in petroleum. He saw a large population in this country needing better lights. Petroleum was plentiful but the refining process so crude that the product was very unsafe when placed in oil lamps.

The man who thinks he can't is quite often right. Any member of the family of C. F. Zaenglein, N. Court-st. is invited to be a guest of The Herald to the Grand Theater. Call at this office for ticket.

"The GAY BANDIT of the BORDER" by TOM GILL

COPYRIGHT 1931, BY INTERNATIONAL MAGAZINE CO., INC. DISTRIBUTED BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS

Under the leadership of "El Coyote," the masked bandit, the Mexican ranchers plan to overthrow the wealthy Paco Morales, who has confiscated their property for years. All in search for "El Coyote" has been in vain. Ted Radcliffe, a young American whose father Morales ruined, loves the Spaniard's beautiful niece, Adela. Jito, Morales' friend, is jealous. Bob Harkness, a friend of Ted's late father, urges Ted not to quarrel with Morales, as he has other plans. Following a raid on the village by Jito's vaqueros, one of his men is killed by Anton, an Indian. Morales, fearing the vengeance of the tribe, releases Anton. Out riding, Adela tells Ted she disapproves of her uncle's treatment of the peons.

CHAPTER XXV

They fell silent, intent on watching the trail, which now sloped rapidly off the mesa and descended abruptly to the dry bottom of the stream. Chaparral and stunted aspen grew thicker as they twisted their way along the narrow cañon, and for two hours jogged at a slow trot, until the ascending grade told them they were entering the foothills. There they dismounted and led their horses up the steep ascent. The sun was already at its height when the girl pointed to a grove of fir trees on the hill above them.

"It is the Spring of the Saints," A place of dreamy silences, Ted found it. Cool and shaded after the blazing desert. A stream welled up from among the rocks and along its banks tall firs and pine trees clustered.

"The sacred trees of the Aztec people, those firs," the girl told him. "Men still call them in Spanish 'the religious firs.' Small how fragrant they are."

They walked knee-deep through rustling ferns. On the knoll behind them stretched a low, rambling wall of stone, and beyond it the gray ruins of a church, with the belfry still standing. Through the windows they could see a rustling bell, silhouetted against the sky.

"The Spanish monks built a monastery here," she said, as they loosed their saddles. "How long they lived here and worshiped God in this quiet place no one knows. The Indians back in the hills still remember them as the 'good people' but now it is a place of bats and ghosts. Listen to that brook and the wind among the fir tops. I often think this is one of the most peaceful places in the world. One might live here all one's life and just be happy and let the world pass by. As a matter of fact, that is what those old monks did."

"And now, if you will bring those saddlebags, we'll see what they've packed for us."

They ate with all the appetite a long morning ride can give, then Ted watched her as she lay back on the soft grass, looking up at the dark tree tops. At last he said, "You're a healthy young animal, aren't you?" "If you mean that I've just eaten enough for two men, I'll have to agree."

"No, but it's been crossing my mind that you're just what old Mother Nature, if she has any plan at all, would want women to be."

"That's too dark a saying, Señor Ted."

"What I'm trying to say is that I find you quite unspoiled by the world. You're neither bored nor bitter, neither are you ready to accept the world as it is. You know there are holes in it, and you try to help. You do help. And there is something of a child in you, too. That swift love of beautiful things you have, your sympathy with all sorrow, your hate of cruel power. So,

"Ted, if you ever fall in love, don't bother that head of yours about whether the girl is rich or poor."

do you mind if I say I find you perfect and quite adorable?"

Leaning over she laid a cool hand on his. "Don't make love to me, Ted," she smiled.

"It's just because I couldn't make love to you that I can say all this."

"I'm not sure I like that either. Explain why couldn't you make love to me?"

"Men tell me you will some day be the richest woman in all north Mexico."

"Well?"

"Well, I am Ted Radcliffe, the poorest man in all Mexico—north or south—gentleman at large, and with a future all to be made."

She smiled again. "I see. Then, after a little she added: 'Ted, I told you last night, if you ever fall in love, don't bother that head of yours about whether the girl is rich or poor. Only very old and very wise people do that, and they're always wrong.'"

"What should I say to her, Sphinx?"

"Just say that you love her. Isn't that enough? Why clutter it up with an inventory of one's possessions? After all, life can be made so simple, just as simple as it is here, where we are now, with all the ugliness and the difficulties left out."

"I'm wondering what your uncle would say if some nameless youth tried to teach that doctrine to you?"

The girl's laughter seemed to fill the glade.

"If I should fall in love with anyone except some Mexican or Spaniard of an old family, uncle would probably turn me out into the world. To him my only purpose in life should be to marry someone worthy to be master of the hacienda of Paco Morales. He used to send me to Mexico City every winter, hoping I'd fall in love with some aristocratic youth."

"And Jito?"

"I think Jito has been much happier since I refused both him and the others."

"And you have refused?"

"Oh I've refused Jito at least a hundred times. The last time was

If Baby's Mouth Is Sore See Doctor Immediately

Its Delicate Membranes Are Easily Subject to Infection, Making Perfect Cleanliness Imperative, to Save Infants from Some Form of Stomatitis

A CARELESS mother in her efforts to cleanse her baby's mouth may do great injury to the lining membrane. This mucous membrane is very sensitive to irritation and prone to infections, and on this account the use of unclean nipples for bottle-fed babies is most dangerous.

Today I wish to tell you about several diseases of the mouth. The first is "stomatitis."

This is characterized by a redness of the mucous membrane. The saliva is increased in amount, and may be so increased as to irritate the skin around the mouth. The child is restless and refuses to eat.

Cleanliness in all the work used in baby's feeding is imperative. There must be great care of the mother's nipples and proper cleaning of the mother's breast. At the first sign of digestive disturbance, efforts should be made to correct it.

"Aphthous stomatitis" is a common ailment. Its symptoms are rather those of the simple variety, and small elevated spots also appear on these soon break down into ulcers. The ulcers are very painful, and the mother's breast should be checked and on the tongue.

Reports on Investments in Palestine for 1930

The fourth annual report of the Palestine Economic corporation, covering the activities for the year 1930, indicated a total of $2,751,591 in investments which have been utilized "to stress the sound and social economic development of the country rather than the securing of maximum returns." The P. E. C. has granted credit to the agricultural, industrial and housing loan-institutions of Palestine and participated as shareholders in various important economic projects.

Tides Control Water in Spring on Beach

Jonesport, Maine.—There is a spring on the beach of Little Spruce Island. At high tide it is covered with salt water. But at low tide one can get from the spring clear, fresh water fit to drink.

How One Woman Lost 10 Lbs. in a Week

Mrs. Betty Luedke of Dayton writes: "I am using Kruschen to reduce weight. I lost 10 pounds in one week and cannot say too much to recommend it."

To take off fat easily, S. P. KELLY and H. W. KELLY take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast. It is the safe way to lose weight. It costs but a trifle. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the safest way to lose fat—money back.

But be sure and get Kruschen. Sales—imitations are numerous and you must safeguard your health.

21; and Negotiable Instruments, March 24. Each of these courses will meet one evening each week at 7 o'clock for a total of eleven weeks.

Professor Ehas H. Chase, who will have charge of the course in Sales Promotion Analysis, will emphasize the administrative aspects of sales promotion and the technique and procedure involved in the development and organization of markets.

TO STUDY FIGURES

Professor Milo Kimball, who will have charge of the course in Investment, will direct his class into a critical examination of the financial and operating reports of typical industrial corporation. "Annual income and balance sheet figures," says United Business Service Reports, "are probably coming in for closer examination this year than at any time within the past decade." After two years of severe depression," continues the editorial, "these reports, particularly balance sheets, carry a very important meaning and, in quite number of cases tell a story which, if heeded, will save bondholders from realizing large losses."

The class in Investment Analysis will cover the above subjects in thorough-going fashion and will develop a definite technique for testing industrial securities with respect to their investment value. Such testing will take into consideration not only the published financial and operating reports of the industries studied, but also the economic position of these industries, the trend of their development

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE PROGRAM STARTS MARCH 21

The Spring Quarter program of the Department of Commerce Extension of the Ohio State University will get under way in twelve cities of the State during the week beginning March 21. Three new courses will open in Columbus in Commerce Building, University Campus, as follows: Sales Promotion and Market Analysis, March 21; Investment Analysis, March 21; and Negotiable Instruments, March 24. Each of these courses will meet one evening each week at 7 o'clock for a total of eleven weeks.

Professor Ehas H. Chase, who will have charge of the course in Sales Promotion Analysis, will emphasize the administrative aspects of sales promotion and the technique and procedure involved in the development and organization of markets.

ANALYSIS TYPE

The class in Negotiable Instruments, under Professor J. Wayne Lyle, will analyze the various types of commercial paper not only from the standpoint of condition essential to negotiability, but also with respect to the rights and liabilities which attach to the drawer, the drawee, and the indorser. This course will clarify vexing questions that arise in connection with negotiable instruments that not infrequently give rise to misunderstanding and losses.

Other courses in the evening school that have run for one or more quarters and will continue through the Spring Quarter, are as follows, the opening date being given in each case: Elements of Accounting and C. P. A. Problems, March 21; Economic Problems, March 22; and Advanced Principles of Accounting, March 24.

Those who are interested either in the new courses or in those that are entering the second or third quarter, are invited to hear the opening lecture in any subject. They will have an opportunity to discuss their background for any course with the instructor-in-charge, at the conclusion of the lectures, and to enroll if they desire to do so and their preparation is sufficient to enable them to pursue the desired course profitably.

All courses are open to residents of Columbus and neighboring communities within driving distance.

NEW HOLLAND

S. S. CLASS MEETING

The Loyal Sons' and Daughters' class of the M. E. church held their monthly meeting Thursday evening at the church parlors.

The vice president, Miss Dorothy Renick presided in the absence of the president, Tom Kirk.

Opening song, "Brighten the Corner Where You Are," was sung. During the business session it was decided to hold the next meeting the second Thursday of April.

Edward Kirk's team had charge of the program which was very interesting, consisting of games and contests. Miss Janet Timmons' team furnished delicious refreshments. Owing to sickness only 20 members and the teacher, Mrs. I. B. Griffith, were present.

W. C. T. U. INSTITUTE

The annual institute of the W. C. T. U. was held in the parlors of the M. E. church Thursday.

The meeting opened by singing "Onward Christian Soldiers." The president, Mrs. Myrl Dennis read the scripture lesson from Psalms 37th chapter followed by prayer by Mrs. Abbie Gussman. Mrs. Lulu Kirk welcomed the visitors and members in her very pleasing manner also spoke on the educational phase of the W. C. T. U.

The department of evangelism was presented by Mrs. Gussman in her plan of work she stressed the great need of daily prayer for the advancement of temperance cause.

Mrs. Lulu Kirk presented plans of work in Child Welfare department. Mrs. Maude Maxey offered the noonday prayer. A very bountiful dinner was served in cafeteria style.

Afternoon devotional was conducted by Mrs. Dennis. Prayer by Rev. Harbaugh. Piano solo by Mrs. Muriel Yeoman. The institute quiz sixtieth anniversary was conducted by Helen Griffith and several other members. Rev. Harbaugh gave a very interesting talk on temperance. Duet, "The Old Rugged Cross," was very beautifully rendered by Mrs. Lulu Kirk and Mrs. Muriel Dennis. The dialogue, "Hold Fast Campaign," was very well given by Mrs. Florence French and Mrs. Ida Gooley. The Sailor and Soldier department was presented by Mrs. Yeoman; Frances Willard was the originator of this department. The Union was favored by a very instructive talk by Mrs. Lucy Price

Ohio Basketball Meet Under Way

COLUMBUS, O., March 18.—Sixteen Ohio high school basketball teams were grouped here today, their nerves tensed, their hopes high, awaiting the start of the statewide tournament for the Class A and Class B basketball championships of the Buckeye State.

Students and followers of every other high school in the state watched the tournament with avid interest, perhaps thinking "it might have been us," perhaps promising "next year it will be us."

Dayton Stivers, Columbus North, Defiance, Pomeroy, Zanesville, Akron West, Akron East and Ashland were to fight it out for the Class A trophy. Garrettsville, Rossford, Castalia, Dayton Fairmont, Stewart, Sugar Creek, Ostrander and North Canton were seeking the Class B honors.

START AT 1 P. M.

The zero hour was set for 1 o'clock this afternoon when Garrettsville and Rossford opened the Class B elimination at the spacious Coliseum at the state fairgrounds where all the tilts will take place.

Then, on an almost hourly schedule, the basketball games will continue throughout today and tomorrow. With each clash, the hopes of at least one team will be crushed, the hopes of another will soar.

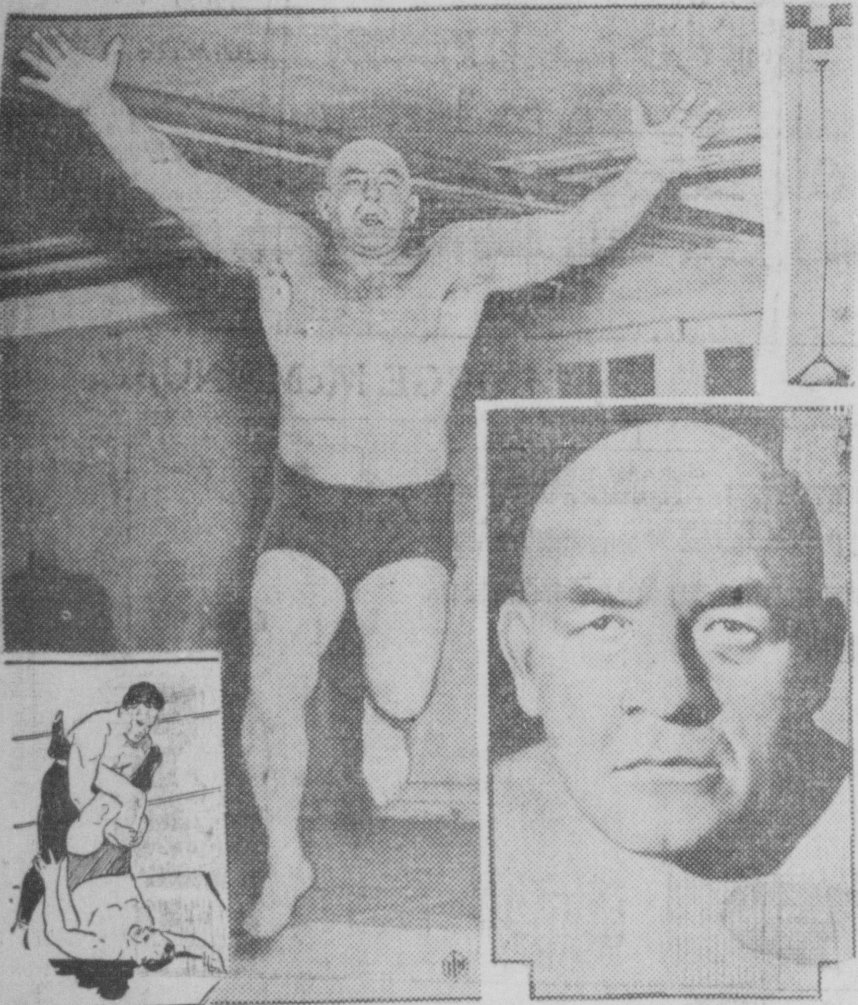

It promised to be a great tournament, the greatest in the 10-years of the Ohio High School Athletic Association, sponsors of the contest.

Sixteen thousand fans paid to watch the high school athletics cavort last year. Officials of the tournament predicted a greater attendance this year.

Color? There was plenty of it. High school bands blaring, students wearing colorful outfits emphasizing their school colors, pennants of varied hues being wildly waved, frenzied and mad cheering—all fitted into the scene of chaos in the stands while out on the hardwood floor, the teams of their alma mater fought.

Suspense? There was plenty, too. It was anybody's tournament. Doubt as to the final outcome served to make the contest more keen.

Planning Comeback at Fifty

If the experts who so profoundly remarked that old Stanislaus Zbyszko, former wrestling champion, was "through" will just glance at this picture they may change their minds about the veteran and mat man. Just to show that he has not stiffened in his years of retirement, Zbyszko executed this leap during a training workout for a comeback. The former mat king will return to the arena on his 50th birthday, and plans to engage in regular appearances thereafter until he earns the right to meet Champion Jim Londos for the title. Inset is a close-up of Zbyszko's fighting face. Photos were made in New York.

IDENTIFICATION WRONG
MALDEN, Mass.—Seven relatives and friends identified the body of a man found frozen in Pine Banks Park as that of George A. Crockett, 23, of Haverhill. But fingerprints proved that the body was not that of Crockett. The fingerprints were sent to the state hospital at Napanock, N. Y., where Crockett formerly was a patient. The identification of the body and the whereabouts of Crockett continue unsolved mysteries.

Saltzgraver Makes Hit With Yank Coach

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 18.—Art Fletcher, coach of the New York Yankees, likes the looks of John Saltzgraver, the shortstop who is trying to make the grade as a regular in the Yankees' infield.

"A good shortstop," was Fletcher's verdict, after giving Saltzgraver a thorough workout at the Yanks' training grounds here.

Fletcher was a fine shortstop himself when he played with the New York Giants, under John McGraw.

Fletcher also had Saltzgraver working out at second. Tony Lazzeri's position. Saltzgraver, a rangy, broad-shouldered chap, looked good there, too.

Saltzgraver, a Keokuk, Ia., boy with St. Paul in the American Association last year, is 34 in that league and fielded .964. He bats left-handed and pegs right-handed. He is 25 years old, weighs 162 pounds and is five feet, eleven inches tall.

Larry Plestina, Chicago, and Dan Koloff, Bulgaria, draw.

Larry Schroeder, of Germany, tossed Bob Wilkie, New York, 8 minutes, 25 seconds.

Wong Bock Chung, China, defeated Pat Reilly, Texas, 10 minutes, 25 seconds, with double arm wristlock.

Count Zarynoff, Russia, and Charlie Strack, New York, draw.

Pro To Supervise Ohio State U. Golf Team

COLUMBUS, O., March 18.—Francis Marzoff, professional at the Wyandotte Golf Club, has been selected to supervise the Ohio State University golf team.

While 15 candidates are available for the varsity, golf activities at the Buckeye institution will be augmented this season by the organization of a freshmen squad.

On March 28, three 18-hole rounds will be played to select the varsity team. The eight best qualifiers will compose the varsity which will play dual matches with Kentucky, Indiana, Michigan, Northwestern as well as compete in the western conference championships and the national intercollegiate events.

Elimination round for freshmen will take place during the week of April 4th with two 18-hole rounds being staged. The four producing the best cards will uphold the freshmen colors in future competition.

Odds and Ends

Japan's Clean-up Day in China
What will the next war do for marches now that the March King is dead?

One can just hear Japan pleading: "Take him away, if I hit him again it will break my heart."

If, as scientists say, fish have a keen sense of smell, why do herders travel in schools?

Perhaps that tax rise won't be necessary after all. Gangsters, fearing the fate of Capone, are said to be paying their income taxes.

PERSONS FEARING AN ACCIDENT
plead with Sir Malcolm Campbell to stop his speed record attempts at 245 miles an hour. Isn't applying the brakes at that speed rather dangerous?

THUNDER: A signal that it's all over and too late to squeal.

The Jungle has laws, also. The punishment for sin is death. Sin consists in being caught.

The kind of "loyalty" the boss likes is the kind that gives him that nice monarch-of-all-he-surveys feeling.

Also by selling to optimists.

that until I got into this mess I didn't smoke or chew. I chew occasionally now."

A move of distaste showed when it was suggested that efforts would be made to provide Harry with a special meal today, if he so desired. He bluntly remarked:

"I don't want to make any kind of a celebration over my passing on. The ordinary rations will do for me."

Powers will be led to the scaffold promptly at 3:52 o'clock tonight, according to present plans. He will be accompanied by the Protestant prison chaplain, the Rev. Earl Geisey, who was present at the interview. The clergyman has been praying frequently with the doomed slayer.

The gallows, a permanent affair, is but a few short steps from Powers' cell. In the presence of about 35 witnesses, mostly newspapermen and state officials, he will plunge through the trap at 9 p. m.

A "dress rehearsal" with a heavy sack of sand representing Powers' body was held at the prison last night. The rope, paraffined to a slippery perfection, slipped through the pulley on the cross-beam, noiselessly, swiftly. The sandbag shot down through the trap then stopped with the sudden jerk, there it lay. Harry's first—and last—appearance on that rough wooden stage will be made today.

HORSE COMING BACK
MARTINS FERRY, O.—The horse is regaining some of its lost importance in the back-to-the-farm movement reported in eastern Ohio. Horse sales are reported to be much more numerous than they have been for many years, especially among the hill farmers. Persons returning to the rural sections from the cities to operate small farms are said to be responsible.

SHEEP KILLING OTTERS
DU QUOIN, Ill.—Trappers and local sportsmen of this vicinity are inclined to the belief that otters and not dogs accounted for the recent wholesale slaughter of sheep on the farm of James Runk, near here. Forty-five sheep were killed and 40 more injured in one night. The throats of the sheep were slit. Sportsmen point out that this makes it more likely that otters did the work.

Who said respectability pays? The Police Gazette did not long survive its rise to comparative respectability.

Ohio Basketball Meet Under Way

COLUMBUS, O., March 18.—Sixteen Ohio high school basketball teams were grouped here today, their nerves tensed, their hopes high, awaiting the start of the statewide tournament for the Class A and Class B basketball championships of the Buckeye State.

Students and followers of every other high school in the state watched the tourney with avid interest, perhaps thinking "it might have been us," perhaps promising "next year it will be us."

Dayton Stivers, Columbus North, Defiance, Pomeroy, Zanesville, Akron West, Akron East and Ashland were to fight it out for the Class A trophy. Garrettsville, Rossford, Castalia, Dayton Fairmont, Stewart, Sugar Creek, Ostrander and North Canton were seeking the Class B honors.

START AT 1 P. M.

The zero hour was set for 1 o'clock this afternoon when Garrettsville and Rossford opened the Class B elimination at the spacious Coliseum at the state fairgrounds here where all the title will take place.

Then, on an almost hourly schedule, the basketball games will continue throughout today and tomorrow. With each clash, the hopes of at least one team will be crushed, the hopes of another will soar.

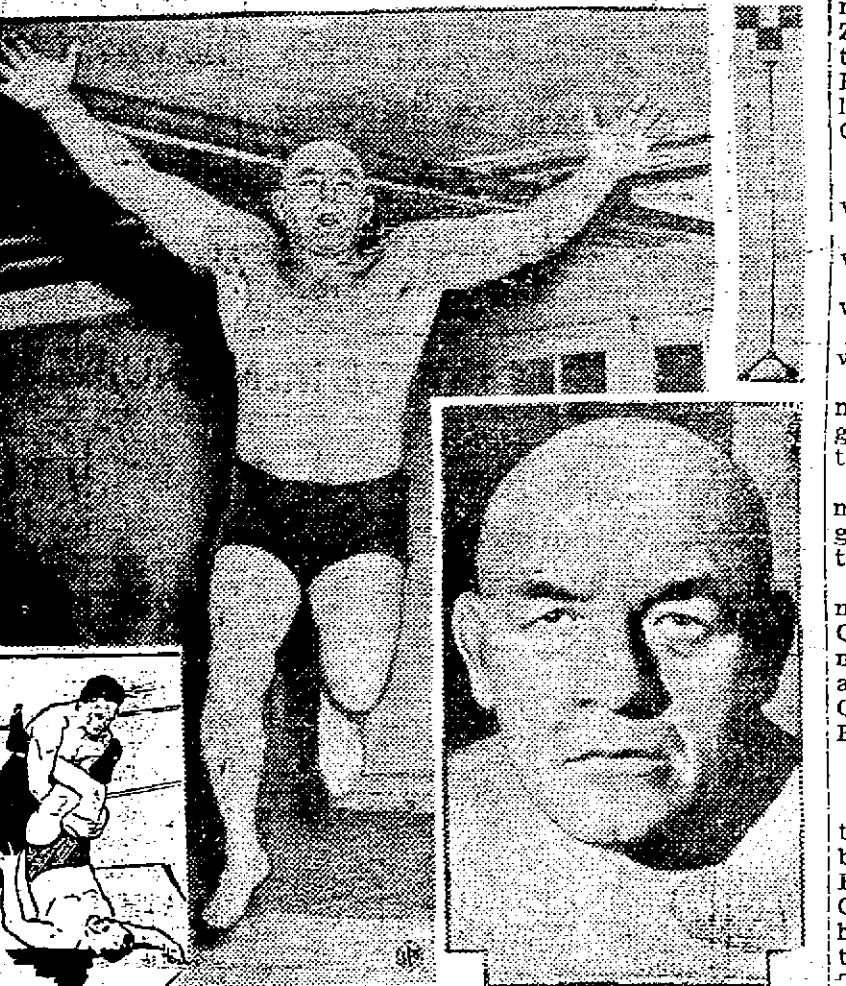

It promised to be a great tourney, the greatest in the 10-years of the Ohio High School Athletic Association, sponsors of the contest.

Sixteen thousand fans paid to watch the high school athletics career last year. Officials of the tournament predicted a greater attendance this year.

Color? There was plenty of it. High school bands blaring, students wearing colorful outfits emphasizing their school colors, parents of varied hues being wildly waved, frenzied and mad cheering—all fitted into the scene of chaos in the stands while out on the hardwood floor, the teams of their alma mater fought.

Suspense? There was plenty, too. It was anybody's tournament. Doubt as to the final outcome served to make the contest more keen.

Planning Comeback at Fifty

If the experts who so profoundly remarked that old Stanislaus Zbyszko, former wrestling champion, was "through" will just glance at this picture they may change their minds about the veteran and mat man. Just to show that he has not stiffened in his years of retirement, Zbyszko executed this leap during a training workout for a comeback. The former mat king will return to the arena on his 50th birthday, and plans to engage in regular appearances thereafter until he earns the right to meet Champion Jim Londos for the title. Inset: is a close-up of Zbyszko's fighting face. Photos were made in New York.

AS BABE RUTH BECAME YANKEE AGAIN FOR $75,000

Colonel Fred Wattenburg, left, signs as witness to the contract by which Babe Ruth will play for the New York Yankees again this season for $75,000. Watching Wattenburg, a friend of Colonel Jack Ruppert, Yankee owner, affix his signature are Ruth, Mrs. Ruth and Colonel Ruppert. Signing took place in St. Petersburg, Fla., where the Yankees are in spring training.

Saltzgaver Makes Hit With Yank Coach

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 18.—Art Fletcher, coach of the New York Yankees, likes the looks of John Saltzgaver, the shortstop who is trying to make the grade as a regular in the Yankees' infield.

A good shortstop, was Fletcher's verdict, after giving Saltzgaver a thorough workout at the Yankees' training grounds here.

Fletcher was a fine shortstop himself when he played with the New York Giants, under John McGraw.

Fletcher also had Saltzgaver working out at second. Tony Lazzeri's position. Saltzgaver, a rangy, broad-shoulder chap, looked good there, too.

Saltzgaver, a Keokuk, Ia., boy with St. Paul in the American Association last year. He hit .346 in that league and fielded .964. He bats left-handed and pegs right-handed. He is 25 years old, weighs 162 pounds and is five feet, eleven inches tall.

Last Night's Wrestling

Al. Morelli, Revere, Mass., won over Charlie Leahman, Ohio, 22 minutes, with flying tackle.

Harry Cornsweet, Brown University, and Kara Pasha, Turkey, draw.

Fedy Ladici, New York, and Pat Foley, Minneapolis, draw.

Larry Plestina, Chicago, and Dan Koloff, Bulgaria, draw.

Larry Schroeder, of Germany, tossed Bob Wilkie, New York, 8 minutes, 25 seconds.

Wong Bock Chung, China, defeated Pat Reilly, Texas, 10 minutes, 25 seconds, with double arm wristlock.

Count Zarynoff, Russia, and Charlie Strack, New York, draw.

Pro To Supervise Ohio State U. Golf Team

COLUMBUS, O., March 18.—Francis Marzolf, professional at the Wyandotte Golf Club, has been selected to supervise the Ohio State University golf team.

While 15 candidates are available for the varsity, golf activities at the Buckeye institution will be augmented this season by the organization of a freshman squad.

On March 28, three 18-hole rounds will be played to select the varsity team. The eight best qualifiers will play dual matches with Kentucky, Indiana, Michigan, Northwestern as well as compete in the western conference championships and the national intercollegiate events.

Elimination round for freshmen will take place during the week of April 4th with two 18-hole rounds being staged.

The tour producing the best cards will uphold the freshmen colors in future competition.

Odds and Ends

Japan's Clean-up Day in China

What will the next war do for marches now that the March King is dead?

One can just hear Japan pleading: "Take him away, if I hit him again it will break my heart."

If, as scientists say, fish have a keen sense of smell, why do herding dogs travel in schools?

Perhaps that tax rise won't be necessary after all. Gangsters, fearing the fate of Capone, are said to be paying their income taxes.

Persons fearing an accident, plead with Sir Malcolm Campbell to stop his speed record attempts at 245 miles an hour. Isn't applying the brakes at that speed rather dangerous?

Thunder: A signal that it's all over and too late to squeal.

The Jungle has laws, also. The punishment for sin is death. Sin consists in being caught.

The kind of "loyalty" the boss likes is the kind that gives him that nice monarch-of-all-he-surveys feeling.

"Many a great fortune has been made by buying from pessimists." Also by selling to optimists.

'BLUEBEARD'

that until I got into this mess I didn't smoke or chew. I chew occasionally now."

A move of distaste showed when it was suggested that efforts would be made to provide Harry with a special meal today, if he so desired. He bluntly remarked:

"I don't want to make any kind of a celebration over my passing out. The ordinary rations will do for me."

Powers will be led to the scaffold promptly at 3:52 o'clock tonight, according to present plans. He will be accompanied by the Protestant prison chaplain, the Rev. Earl Geissey, who was present at the interview. The clergyman has been praying frequently with the doomed slayer.

The gallows, a permanent affair, is but a few short steps from Powers' cell. In the presence of about 35 witnesses, mostly newspapermen and state officials, he will plunge through the trap at 9 p. m.

A "dress rehearsal" with a heavy sack of sand representing Powers was held at the prison last night. The rope, paraffined to a slippery perfection, slipped through the pulley on the cross-beam, noisily, swiftly. The sandbag shot down through the trap then stopped with the sudden jerk, threatening its "neck" was broken—a poor job.

Harry's first—and last—appearance on that rough wooden stage will be made tonight.

HORSE COMING BACK

MARTINS FERRY, O.—The horse is regaining some of its lost importance in the back-to-the-farm movement reported in eastern Ohio. Horse sales are reported to be much more numerous than they have been for many years, especially among the hill farmers. Persons returning to the rural sections from the cities to operate small farms are said to be responsible.

SHEEP KILLING OTTERS

DU QUOIN, Ill.—Trappers and local sportsmen of this vicinity are inclined to the belief that otters and not dogs accounted for the recent wholesale slaughter of sheep on the farm of James Runk, near here. Forty-five sheep were killed and 40 more injured in one night. The throats of the sheep were slit. Sportsmen point out that this makes it more likely that otters did the work.

Who said respectability pays? The Police Department has been surviving its rise to comparative respectability.

Reports on Investments in Palestine for 1930

The fourth annual report of the Palestine Economic corporation, covering the activities for the year 1930, indicated a total of $2,751,591 in investments which have been utilized "to stress the sound and social economic development of the country rather than the securing of maximum returns." The P. E. C. has granted credit to the agricultural, industrial and housing loan-institutions of Palestine and participated as shareholders in various important economic projects. —Opinion.

How One Woman Lost 10 Lbs. in a Week

Mrs. Betty Luedke of Dayton writes "I am using Kruschen to reduce weight—I lost 10 pounds in one week and cannot say too much to recommend it."

To take off fat easily, SWEETLY and HARMLESSLY—take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—it is the safe way to lose unsightly fat and one bottle lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the safest way to lost fat—money back.

But be sure and get Kruschen Salt—imitations are numerous and you must safeguard your health.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE PROGRAM STARTS MARCH 21

The Spring Quarter program of the Department of Commerce Extension of the Ohio State University will get under way in twelve cities of the State during the week beginning March 21. Three new courses will open in Columbus in Commerce Building, University Campus, as follows: Sales Promotion and Market Analysis, March 21; Investment Analysis, March 21; and Negotiable Instruments, March 24. Each of these courses will meet one evening each week at 7 o'clock for a total of eleven weeks.

Professor Chas. H. Chase, who will have charge of the course in Sales Promotion Analysis, will emphasize the administrative aspects of sales promotion and the technique and procedure involved in the development and organization of markets.

TO STUDY FIGURES
Professor Milo Kimball, who will have charge of the course in Investment, will direct his class into a critical examination of the financial and operating reports of typical industrial corporation. "Annual income and balance sheet figures," says United Business Service Reports, "are probably coming in for closer examination this year than at any time within the past decade. After two years of severe depression," continues the editorial, "these reports, particularly balance sheets, carry a very important meaning and, in quite a number of cases tell a story which, if heeded, will save bondholders from realizing large losses."

The class in Investment Analysis will cover the above subjects in thorough-going fashion and will develop a definite technique for testing industrial securities with respect to their investment value. Such testing will take into consideration not only the published financial and operating reports of the industries studied, but also the economic position of these industries, the trend of their development and administrative policies as they affect the stability and earning power of securities issued.

The class in Negotiable Instruments, under Professor J. Wayne Ley, will analyze the various types of commercial paper not only from the standpoint of condition essential to negotiability, but also with respect to the rights and liabilities which attach to the drawer, the drawee, and the indorser. This course will clarify vexing questions that arise in connection with negotiable instruments that not infrequently give rise to misunderstanding and losses.

Other courses in the evening school that have run for one or more quarters and will continue through the Spring Quarter, are as follows, the opening date being given in each case: Elements of Accounting and C. P. A. Problems, March 21; Economic Problems, March 22; and Advanced Principles of Accounting, March 24.

Those who are interested either in the new courses or in those that are entering the second or third quarter, are invited to hear the opening lecture in any subject. They will have an opportunity to discuss their background for any course with the instructor-in-charge, at the conclusion of the lectures, and to enroll if they desire to do so and their preparation is sufficient to enable them to pursue the desired course profitably.

All courses are open to residents of Columbus and neighboring communities within driving distance.

THRILLS SEEN IN PRODUCTION

Small Audience Witnesses 'Little Theatre's' Show; Is Again Tonight.

Filled with thrills, mystery and comedy from beginning to end, Circleville high school's Thespian Little Theatre presented its third production of the season, "The Yellow Shadow" to a small audience in the high school auditorium Thursday evening. The play under the direction of J. Wylie Fetherlin was well accepted by the audience.

Despite the fact that plot, lighting effect and other arrangements made the production a difficult one to stage, the play was produced in excellent style and not one bit of criticism could be offered.

The action takes place in a bleak house far off in the country near Seattle, Washington, which Mildred Marvin, a young girl has inherited from her uncle. Yellow shadows and the like begin to appear to Hazel Wayne, Mildred's cousin as soon as she reaches the house. A murder mystery in in store for the girls as soon as they arrive at the home accompanied by Mildred's attorney, Gilbert Wright. It is later shown that Wright is the murderer, having killed a man whom he suspected of being a secret service agent.

Wright, undercover has been smuggling Chinamen into the country and he is being watched. Thrills and plenty of them kept the audience entertained throughout the show.

John Teal played the part of Wong Song, a Chinaman and characterized the role nicely. Other participants in the play included Gaylor Rose, John Mason, John Styers, John Maxey, Margaret Long, Jane Mader, Gene Rader, Margaret Bower and Dorothy L. Glick.

Miss Johnda Tootle's glee club and C. F. Zaenglein's orchestra furnished between act features.

Rattlesnakes Help to "Keep Wolf From Door"

Denver.—Ingenuity is valuable at all times, but during a depression it may keep one from starving, or euphemistically, "keep the wolf from the door."

Theodore Tausch, who was unemployed, started catching rattlesnakes and selling them to zoos. By so doing, he declared, he was able to support his family and keep his children in school.

Here's how he does it: "First, I approach a snake in a friendly manner. When it sees me, I stand still a few minutes to let the reptile get acquainted. Most people approach a snake antagonistically and the snake feels it has to fight for its life.

"In about twenty seconds, the snake learns I do not mean to kill it. I then can reach down and pick it up."

Porcupines Found New

Foe of Colorado Trees

Durango, Colo.—San Juan national forest officials have discovered a new enemy of trees—porcupines. The animals rub trees with their sharp quills, stripping a ring around them and causing them to "spike top," or die at the top first.

Forest Supervisor Andrew Hutton estimated porcupines have caused as much damage to the timber during the last few years as that caused by fire.

A campaign against them, he said, would be made this winter.

MANY FEATURES FOR NEW SHREDDED BISCUIT

Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuit Set New Standard for This Type of Cereal

Local grocers are featuring a new shredded biscuit developed by the Kellogg Company of Battle Creek, Michigan, which is a decided improvement in many ways. The improved Kellogg biscuit is "pressure-cooked" by a special process that retains the complete food value of the whole wheat. At the same time, delightful flavor is baked in.

Other improvements are a biscuit of more convenient, economical size. Two of these new biscuits just fit the cereal bowl. You get 15 to the package instead of the usual dozen. And every biscuit is toasted a rich golden brown on both top and bottom—not just one side. This makes them exceptionally crisp.

These new biscuits have been analyzed by the Medical Arts Laboratory of Philadelphia and found to be so rich in food value that every package is certified. Any mother can now be certain her family is getting a well-balanced food with these new Kellogg biscuits.

Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuits are tasty for breakfast, lunch, children's suppers. Extra good with fruits or sweetened with honey—in addition to the milk or cream.

You can identify these new biscuits by the name, Kellogg's, and the familiar red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.
